Strong Farmer Selling Sparks Argentina Exports

Cumulative Percent of Argentina Soybeans Sold

Driven by a large discrepancy in the official exchange rate and the market exchange rate and exacerbated by high inflation,<sup>1</sup> farmers sold 2021/22 soybeans at the slowest pace in over a decade through the end of August. In an attempt to induce farmer selling, boost exports, and replenish central bank reserves, the Government of Argentina offered a more-favorable exchange rate during September of 200 pesos per U.S. dollar, up from the previous official exchange rate of 139 pesos per U.S. dollar.

As a result, Argentine farmer soybean sales exploded in September. According to the Buenos Aires Grain Exchange, farmers sold over 16 million tons of soybeans in September, or 37 percent of the total estimated 2021/22 Argentine soybean crop. Some portion of this tonnage will cannibalize sales that would have occurred between October and January, as farmers who intended to sell later in the year took advantage of the favorable exchange rate.

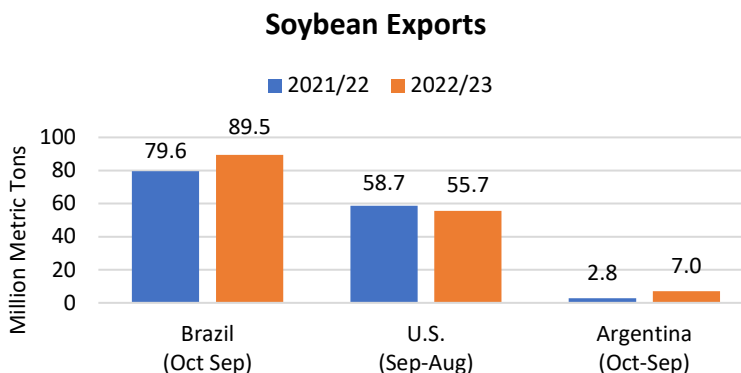

2022/23 (Oct-Sep) Argentina exports are raised 2.3 million tons this month to 7.0 million. If realized, Argentina will be the world's third-largest soybean exporter again after falling behind Canada, Uruguay, and Paraguay in recent years. Strong soybean exports are expected to dampen available supplies for crush and product exports in the Oct-Sep outyear. However, despite the downward revisions this month, crush is still forecast to grow with the larger 2022/23 crop. Argentina soybean crush is likely to remain slow until harvesting the 2022/23 crop due to tight supplies and weaker crush margins as plummeting palm oil prices have dragged global vegetable oil prices down. Since peaking in late April, South American soybean oil export prices have dropped by more than one third. However, crush should recover with supplies and crush margins later into the marketing year and more than compensate for a slow start.

Higher Argentine soybean exports in the final months of 2022 are also expected to impact the global 2022/23 soybean outlook. This month, 2022/23 Brazil (Oct-Sep) soybean exports are raised just 500,000 tons due to competition from Argentina, despite a 3-million-ton production increase.

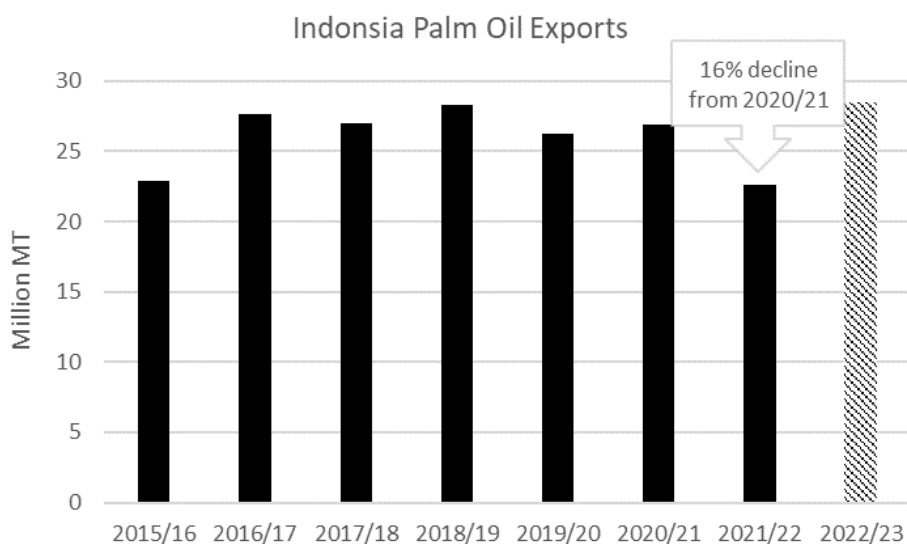

Additionally, 2022/23 U.S.

exports are lowered more than 1 million tons this month on increased competition from Argentina and Brazil and smaller U.S. supplies on lower production more than offsetting higher carryin.

MARKET FEATURES

MY 2021/22 Indonesia Palm Oil Exports Plunge on Trade Policies

Revisions to Indonesia’s palm oil export policies in 2022 have hampered total exports for marketing year 2021/22 which are now estimated at 22.65 million tons, the lowest level since 2015/16.

The government of Indonesia started to implement export-restricting measures in January 2022 in response to high domestic prices for cooking oil. These policies first included export levies to subsidize cooking oil before shifting to a domestic market obligation (DMO) policy in February 2022. Palm oil exporters were required to sell 20 percent of planned exports to the domestic market but increased to 30 percent in March.

This policy was revoked in March and replaced with the export levy funding the cooking oil subsidy. In April, the export policy changed to a complete ban, causing May shipments to plummet to 183,000 tons, a plunge of 2 million tons from normal/average volumes.

The export ban was lifted in late May and replaced with the DMO policy at 20 percent. The following month, the Export Acceleration Program was implemented, in which exporters could pay $200/ton to bypass the DMO. Additionally, the export tax was raised and the levy was lowered, causing shipments to rebound to levels consistent with historical averages. By July, the DMO was lowered to 14 percent and the export levy temporarily waived until the end of August in response to low domestic vegetable oil prices.

The export levy waiver has been extended until the end of October 2022. Export volumes have responded positively to this relative stability in policy, reaching a 5-year monthly high in August. The recent resumption of palm oil exports from Indonesia has driven down global palm oil prices and increased the discount between palm and soybean oil to record levels, offering some relief to global vegetable oil markets. In the new marketing year 2022/23 beginning in October, palm oil shipments are expected to rebound to 28.5 million tons assuming no new export bans.

OVERVIEW 2022/23

The global 2022/23 oilseed production forecast is raised nearly 2 million tons to 647 million, reflecting larger Brazil soybean and EU rapeseed crops more than offsetting smaller U.S. soybean and Canada rapeseed production. Oilseed trade is marginally higher on increased Argentina and Brazil soybean exports only partially offset by lower U.S. and Paraguay soybean exports. Global crush is raised slightly on higher Brazil and China soybean and EU rapeseed processing. Total global oilseeds stocks are up primarily on higher soybean stocks in Brazil. Global protein meal and oil production and consumption are higher, in line with changes to oilseed production and crush. The projected U.S. season-average farm price for soybeans is down 35 cents to $14.00/bu.

OVERVIEW 2021/22

Global 2021/22 oilseed production is raised slightly to 605 million tons on larger Brazil, U.S., and Uruguay soybean crops. Oilseed trade is up fractionally on higher Argentina and Uruguay soybean exports. Global oilseed ending stocks are up on higher U.S., Brazil, and Argentina soybean carryout. Protein meal production is up, but global trade is nearly flat as higher soybean meal exports from Brazil and Paraguay and higher India rapeseed meal exports offset lower Argentina soybean meal exports. Meal consumption is up marginally. Global vegetable oil trade is down, primarily on lower Indonesia and Malaysia palm oil exports. The U.S. season-average farm price for soybeans is unchanged at $13.30/bu.

EXPORT PRICES

September 2022 Soybean Export Prices

	U.S.	Argentina	Brazil
September Avg Price	$607/ton	$582/ton	$608/ton
Change vs August	-$21/ton	-$25/ton	-$12/ton

Source: International Grains Council. All prices are FOB: U.S. Gulf, Argentina Up River, and Brazil Paranagua.

Average soybean prices for major exporters were down slightly in September compared to the previous month. Increased Argentina exports in response to the government's temporary 'soy dollar' preferential exchange rate export incentive put downward pressure on the entire soybean market. Additionally, continued strengthening of the U.S. dollar and larger-than-expected soybean stocks published by NASS in Stocks and Small Grains Report added further downward pressure on prices.

September 2022 Soybean Meal Export Prices

Premiums for U.S. soybean meal compared to South America decreased in September. Monthly average prices decreased for U.S. soybean meal on strong U.S. currency appreciation, weaker soybean prices, and increased Argentina soybean exports. By comparison, South American prices were stable.

September 2022 Soybean and Palm Oil Export Prices

Domestic soybean oil demand for biodiesel production continued to support U.S. prices, which did not drop as drastically as South American soybean oil depressed by falling global vegetable oil prices. Palm oil prices continued their downward trend from all-time highs earlier this year, attributable to Indonesian export policy adjustments. Average monthly palm oil prices fell to their lowest level since November 2020 this month, maintaining a discount to other vegetable oils.
